GROWING NORTHERN METALIC

As a natural risk-taker and entrepreneur, Al was drawn to the northern part of Canada.

Northern Metallic began in the mid-1950s at Mile 0 of the Alaska Highway in Dawson Creek, BC, a location steeped in history. The business started without a brick-and-mortar store, relying instead on a small, dedicated group of salesmen. These pioneers travelled the newly built Alaska Highway, selling tires and supplies directly from their vehicles. Given the challenging road conditions at the time, the demand for tires kept them busy!

As a natural risk-taker and entrepreneur, Al was drawn to the northern part of Canada, which attracts those with a unique blend of adventurous spirit, resilience, and vision. He found himself in a business community of individuals who thrived in dynamic environments and had a strong spirit of ingenuity.

The expansion into Alberta under Al's direction set the stage for the company's remarkable growth and diversification. Al's journey as an entrepreneur really took off with Northern Metallic. From Rea Peverley, Al learned what would become his signature business development strategy: find a partner in each community who understands the local landscape and industry, establish a team, and build a network of stores. This approach laid the groundwork for expanding and nurturing businesses and partnerships across Alberta, British Columbia, the Yukon, and the Northwest Territories.

CANADIAN LUMBER; A CASE STUDY

The Northern Metallic Lubricant difference is in creating specialized solutions for our partners, and we're proud to have partnered with Gilbert Smith Forest Products Ltd. A family-run cedar manufacturer with deep roots in Barriere, BC, committed to sustainability and quality since 1955.

By installing a specialized tank system on-site, we've made the storage and handling of essential lubricants more cost-effective, while also enhancing site safety.

We provided a tailored solution that supports the continued growth and operational efficiency of Gilbert Smith Forest Products.

This project is a perfect example of our commitment to investing in our customers' futures with smart, reliable products.

Part of our History

Lumber helped build Western Canada. During early settlement and expansion, forests provided materials for housing, railways, and infrastructure. Towns and entire regions grew around sawmills and logging operations.

Safe work is essential

Safety is in our DNA. That's why we provide comprehensive safety services that protect your employees and your property.
